Hold Annual Meet
Of School Leaders
At Atlantic City

More than 15,000 school administrators from all parts of the country met last week in Atlantic City, N. J. in annual convention. Walter F. Fierke, superintendent of the Tinley Park public schools and his wife were privileged to attend this convention.

Improving the schools and the education of children for security was the main concern of this group of public school superintendents.

General session meetings brought the thinking of outstanding Americans to the convention: such personages as Roy E. Larsen, editor of Time magazine; Frank Abrams, chairman of the board of Standard Oil; Walter Reuther, president of the CIO; Mrs. Agnes Meyer, wife of the chairman of the board of the Washington Post and Al Capp, creator of "Li'l Abner," discussed current problems facing education today.

Roy E. Larsen gave a sketch of the improvement in the schools within the past 20 years.

Walter Reuther spoke of the need for increased public support of the public schools, saying that we spend only as much on education in one year as was spent to carry on World War II for one week. War is a negative aspect and we need to support education, which is the positive road to peace.

In addition to the general sessions 19 group discussions clinics were held each day dealing with current educational problems in an exchange of ideas and thinking.

KILLS LARGE RATTLESNAKE WITH SINGLE SHOT

Mr. Louis Rauch, father of Frederick Rauch, proprietor of the Mokena Oil Co., who is well known in Mokena, as he spends much of his time, there working at the plant, went to Florida with Mrs. Rauch about the first of December, and recently killed a large rattlesnake.

One day while the Rauchs were fishing, near Melbourne where they are staying, the outboard motor acted in such a way that they thought it advisable to pull in to shore and have the motor repaired. After reaching the beach and placing the outboard motor in their luggage carrier, Mrs. Rauch decided she wanted to do some shopping in a nearby town. They had not gone very far when something on the road attracted their attention and they stopped to investigate. It proved to be a very large rattlesnake—of which Florida seems to have an abundance—in the act of crossing the road.

Mr. Rauch has a permit to carry a gun, which, fortunately was in the compartment of his car. Before the big snake could slither out of sight, Mr. Rauch got out his revolver and shot it. When the bullet hit, the snake jumped three feet in the air but that one shot finished it.

About this time another motorist happened along and stopped, being curious to see what was going on. The stranger, who was a native of these parts, was very happy to see this big snake killed, and said it had enough poison to kill about 1500 children. Because of his interest, Mr. Rauch gave the motorist several rattles, after which they continued on their shopping trip.

The picture shows Mr. Rauch with his prize rattler. As he is only 5 ft. 10 inches tall, it can readily be seen from the picture that this rattlesnake measured well over 5 feet in length.

The Rauchs are having a wonderful time in Florida and plan to return to Blue Island about April 1.

Mr. Louis Rauch, father of Frederick Rauch proprietor of the Mokena Oil Co., holds five-foot rattlesnake he killed in Florida, with a single shot. A native Floridian said the snake had enough poison in him to kill about 1500 children.

NEW CARD PARTY

The Mokena Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a card party Saturday, February 28 starting at 8 p.m. in the VFW hall on Wolf road. The committee in charge consists of John Giesem, Marshall Muller and Fred Kappelman.

The board of Lincolnway community high school, District 210, met in the Haven school, New Lenox Wednesday night, and opened the bids for the new school. There were 14 bidders on the overall general contract on the building itself, and 5 separate subcontractor bidders, as follows:

Nine on painting, 5 on the asphalt tile flooring, 7 on plumbing, 11 on heating and ventilating, and 5 on electrical wiring and fixtures.

In addition to the base bids there were 24 alternate bids, such as completion of the departmental shop area and various others that might be classified in the luxury line.

The board fears that the $1,200,000 appropriation for the building of the school is inadequate for everything with prices as they are today, and believes that with these funds they may not be able to complete the auditorium outside of building the walls, ceiling and floor at this time.

They had many good competitive bids, but all were higher than had been anticipated, and the contractors do not know where they are at just now because of the recent release of price controls.

Whereas the board had previously relieved priority on steel and copper, it may not now amount to very much, but there seems to be a fairly good supply and the contractors do not anticipate any difficulty in shortages in this line.

The various contractors gave their estimate as to the length of time required to build the school which ranges from 330 calendar days to 500. The three lowest firms were about the same in their estimate of 400 days, and planned to break ground early in March.

At the next meeting, which has been tentatively set for Friday night, February 27, starting at 8 o'clock in the Mokena public school, the board will let the bids. This meeting is contingent upon the completion of the architect's arrangements.

The Harry Shepley family, whose farm the board has purchased for the school site, are still on their premises and expect to move about the first of March. However, Mr. Shepley plans to seed the farm this spring as usual, to prevent the weeds growing, as the entire farm will not be disturbed at the present time.

DR. FERGUSON TAKES OWN LIFE

Friday morning Dr. Andrew Ferguson, who roomed in the home of Mrs. Minnie Schmiedeke, in Orland Park, was found dead in bed in his room, shot through the mouth. Mrs. Schmiedeke had talked to him about 8 a.m. and when he failed to keep an appointment Mrs. Leavitt, wife of Dr. Samuel S. Leavitt, with whom Dr. Ferguson was associated in Palos Heights, called at the Schmiedeke home to investigate.

At the inquest Saturday the deputy coroner said the young physician apparently committed suicide, as his revolver was found at his side. No notes were found to indicate what his motive might have been, but it is believed that he was despondent because of domestic difficulties. He had recently been divorced.

Dr. Ferguson was a World War II veteran, having served three years in the navy and two months in Korea. He was well liked by all who knew him. He is survived by two small children and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Thompson of 3438 66th Place, Chicago. Bogus Money Shrinks With Arrest Of Counterfeit Ring

(CNS) Arrest of four big Chicago counterfeiters Feb. 2, 1952, was credited with an 80 per cent reduction in counterfeit money recovered since then in the Chicago area, in an annual report of the United States Secret Service issued Saturday. The four, William Skelly, William Russo, and James and Sam Sferas, brothers, were recently sentenced by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe.

Harry Anheier, local head of the Secret Service, said since their arrest, 1952 had only $39,320 in fake money recovered after reaching circulation. This compares with $64,161 found in circulation during 1951 plus $146,010 seized before reaching innocent holders that year, including $100,000 obtained from the four men.

Last week, Anheier said, Chicago counterfeit seizures totaled only $70, the lowest in recent years.

The demise of the west side gang was also reflected in national figures, showing $501,188 seized throughout the country, including $269,163 before circulation, Anheier said.

Contrastingly, losses from forged government checks were far greater nationally in 1952, the report showed. Cases received totaled 27,604 and 27,967 cases were completed, involving $2,256,621. Arrests totaled 2,037 on such charges.

In Chicago, 48 check passers were arrested and 10 bond forgers compared to 104 check forgers in 1951.

One unusual arrest was Eddie Bohn, operator of the Cafe Motel Service Station in Denver, Colo. He was fined $250 for persisting in gluing stickers advertising his motel on silver dollars handed out in change. Banks and owners of merchandise vending machines complained that the stickers interfered with counting and mechanical operations.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Enthusiasm for a camping vacation is something that comes with experience.

A good way for the beginner to assure camping pleasures and avoid its pitfalls, is to start on the "installment" plan—a little at a time. This helps evade such disillusioning discomforts as soggy sleeping bags, collapsing tents, mosquitoes or long walks for water which can beset the uninitiated.

For the first trip, select a cabin-camp location. It provides indoor sleeping and eating facilities with virtually all the equipment you need for a gentle indoctrination into woodsman'ship.

On the second trip, make a minimum investment in the smaller essentials but rent a tent, sleeping and cooking equipment. (Since sleeping bags are not supplied, take your own blankets.) Vary the types of equipment you rent during a few subsequent trips so that you can decide which you prefer to buy. In this way you not only eventually make more satisfactory purchases but you spread the total investment cost over a period of time.

One of the best sources of information on campsites is a map of recreational areas of the United States published by the United States Travel Division, National Park Service, Department of Interior.

Confirmed campers enjoy the "oneness" with nature, the accessibility of field and stream sports and the superior satisfaction of making their own fun. And since campsites usually rent at less than a dollar a night, their economy for vacationing families can't be beat!

TV Hearing

(CNS) A Chicago City council subcommittee decided Friday to hold next month public hearings exploring the effects of television crime shows on the city's juvenile delinquency problem.

Committee chairman, Ald. Patrick Petrone (28), said he will invite parent-teacher groups, church groups, educators, advertising agency officials, broadcasting companies, sponsors of TV shows, the police commissioner, psychiatrists and judges to give their views.

Milk Problem

(CNS) The Chicago Board of Health has asked for a ruling whether it can prevent the suburban sale of alleged pre-dated milk bottled in Chicago. Corporation Counsel John Mortimer is to interpret city milk ordinances to see whether the health board can prohibit such milk shipments for sale outside the city.

In Chicago, milk bottled on Monday can be sold no later than Wednesday. Actually, city law says milk must be sold no later than 48 hours after bottling. In practice, this means the third day after bottling since who is to say when the 48th hour has passed.

Pre-dated milk would be milk bottled on Monday with the bottle cap or carton marked for sale no later than Thursday. Or simply milk marked for sale by a date that is more than three days after bottling.

Many of Chicago's suburbs do not have laws prohibiting the sale of pre-dated milk or milk that is more than three days old. And Chicago's health board has no power to stop this alleged practice in the suburbs.

But the board thinks it can stop it indirectly—that is, if it has the power to do so—by preventing Chicago dairies from shipping so-called "old milk" for sale outside the city. The board's chief sanitary officer, Harold Wainess, asked for the ruling Monday.

A health board spokesman said it's possible some dairies are changing route slips on bottled milk bound for suburban delivery, after health inspectors have checked the milk. The spokesman explained that pre-dated milk tagged for sale in the suburbs may find its way among milk delivered in Chicago. He did not change any dairy as doing this, but he indicated that it has happened.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 22:34-23:39.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Jeremiah 22:3-5, 13-16.

Hypocrites

Lesson for March 1, 1953

"HYPOCRITE" is a bad word. You should be careful about calling people hypocrites, because perhaps you do not quite mean it. A hypocrite is not the same thing as a weak Christian, or a stumbling Christian, or a half-developed Christian, a 50 per cent Christian. These are pretty common; the regular simon-pure hypocrite is a rarer bird. A hypocrite is a person who is knowingly and intentionally bad, and has no intention of being anything else; but he puts on a mask or disguise of goodness. It is only a front, he does not mean a bit of it. He is just a devil playing angel. Such persons may be somewhat rare, but they do exist. They are to be found in the church, they are high up in the state. No walk of life is altogether free from them.

They Will Not Lift A Finger

Almost the entire 23rd chapter of Matthew is devoted to Jesus' slanting attack on the hypocrites he knew. The modern reader will be struck by certain family resemblances between hypocrites of all eras. Jesus, be it noted, was talking about the religious "experts" of his time, the men who correspond to today's big city preachers, professors of theology, Bible teachers and so on. He did not mean to say that they were all hypocrites but definitely some of them were.

One mark of the hypocrite is that he preaches but does not practice. As Jesus puts it, he lays heavy burdens on other men but he will not lift a finger to help carry such a load himself. Common modern examples of this kind of person include the politician who yells distractedly about dishonesty in the other party but hush-hushes all the irregularities in his own; the business man who demands to know why we can't have honesty in government while all the time he and his firm are carrying on crooked deals; the young man who demands that his sweetheart must be true to him while he carries on with one girl after another. Insisting that others live up to a standard we will not accept ourselves, is what Jesus called hypocrisy.

They Want To Face The Cameras

A cartoon shows a football team in a huddle. The captain is saying: "Let's try a run around the other end. Never mind if you're not facing the television cameras!" Any one who can remember seeing the great political conventions of last summer on television will recall how time after time the roll call would be slowed down by some one demanding a poll of the delegation. Shrewd observers remarked that in numbers of cases there was no real doubt about the accuracy of the vote; there was no good reason except that for a few brief moments the man who asked for the re-count would have the cameras trained on him. This playing for the grand-stand, scene-stealing, all that sort of thing, is part of what our Lord calls being a hypocrite. In fact the very word "hypocrite" in Greek means an actor.

This world is full of actors and they are not all on the stage. Even in the pulpit we can sometimes see men who think more of what the Monday papers will say about their sermons than of what God will say. A good reputation is a good thing to have; it is not to be despised.

Frosting and Gravy

Furthermore, hypocrites are excessively fond of all the outward signs and benefits of being (or being thought to be) "big shots." Every once in a while the newspapers tell of some man who has pretended to be some European count or other titled gentleman. Imitating the manners of the aristocrat, he lives off quite a number of gullible people before the police catch up with him. Now the true aristocrat is a responsible person; he carries many responsibilities. Titles and so on are incidental. But the bogus aristocrat is irresponsible; all he cares about is glamor. Now you can't make a poor cake good by giving it thick coat of frosting; you can't make a tough steak tender by slathering it with gravy. It takes more than frosting and gravy to make a good meal. But the hypocrite, in the church or out, cares more for life's cover-up than for what is underneath.

Latest Guide to Choose Right Corn

The latest guide to choosing a suitable corn hybrid for 1953 plantings. Bulletin 564, is now available to Cook county farmers. Farm Adviser Carl F. Mees has announced.

Just issued by the Illinois College of Agriculture, the new bulletin reports performance of 242 hybrids tested at five fields at locations from northern to extreme southern Illinois last summer.

It compares yield, moisture content, lodging, height of ear and percentage of stand. On some fields resistance to insects was also noted.

There's a lot of difference between some of the commonly grown hybrids in yield and other characteristics. Mees says Reading Bulletin 564 may be much less expensive than getting this information through experience.

From 60 to 81 hybrids were tested at each field in 1952. The average yield for all hybrids tested was 88.3 bushels per acre, 8 percent above the 1951 average.

In addition to results of the 1952 tests, more reliable three year summaries are included for all locations.

On of the simplest and most economical ways to increase your 1953 corn production, is to plant the right hybrid. A study of this new publication can help you make the proper selection.

Swine Growers to Meet April 2

Make special note of Thursday, April 2, says Cook county Farm Adviser Carl F. Mees. That's the date set for the annual Illinois Swine Growers' Day at the University of Illinois.

This year's program will feature latest information on swine feeding and breeding problems, Mees says. Cook county swine growers will have a special interest in the work being done with creep starter ration, and protein level studies.

Some of the other research results you'll hear about include the value of implanting baby pigs with antibiotic pellets. Ladino clover pasture and grass-legume silage for bred gilts and sows, combinations of antibiotics in growing-fattening pig rations and a progress report of swine breeding research.

Wayne C. Jackson, Wilson and company, Chicago, will lead a discussion on the future of the quality hog. How swine breeding research helps the hog producer will be reported by L. N. Hazel, animal husbandry department at Iowa State College.

In another report L. E. Hanson, animal husbandry department at the University of Minnesota, will tell how current research points to improved feeding practices. P. D. Beamer of the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine will give a brief review of rabbit modified hog cholera vaccines, rhinitis and transmissible gastroenteritis.

There'll be plenty of chance for questions and answers, Mees says, and you'll also be able to visit the swine farm and see the research work in progress.

Dear Mrs. Semmler:

Just a few lines to tell you that in the eighteen years I lived in Tinley Park I never realized what a great little paper I had been reading. Now that I am 2,200 miles away, by reading the paper I feel as though I am so close to Tinley and all my old friends and associates.

Tangerines Tops For Wintertime Snacks

Plump little Florida tangerines with zip-off peel are a bright idea for snacks this time of year. Serve the fresh sweet fruit with a platter of cheese and mugs of hot Florida Toddy. Guests will welcome the change from the too-rich food of the holiday season.

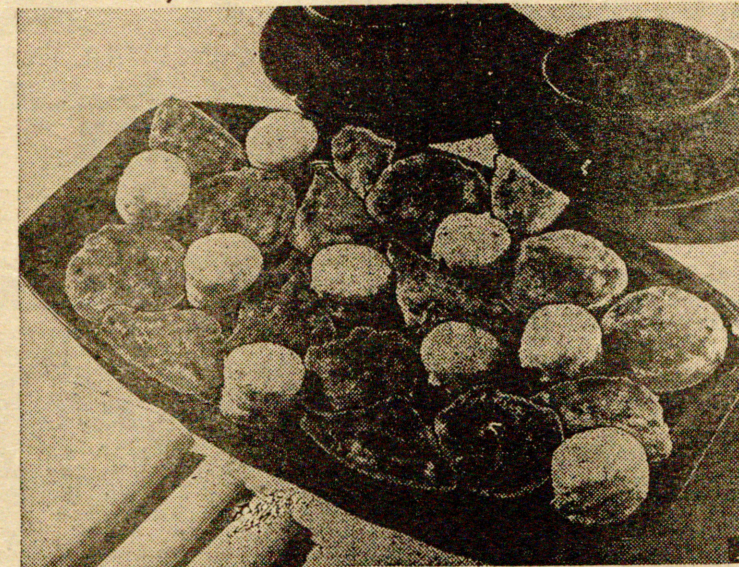

Put out a bowl of the zipper-skin fruit from Florida for the kids to enjoy as between-meal snacks. Youngsters can't get enough tangerines, and the fruit is good for them. The tangerine, like all Florida citrus fruit, is an excellent source of vitamin C, a nutrient we need daily.

Florida Toddy is a new combination of Florida orange juice, cranberry juice cocktail and spices. Here's the recipe:

Florida Toddy
2 cups Florida orange juice
1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon whole cloves
2 sticks cinnamon
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
6 Florida orange slices

Combine all ingredients except orange slices in sauce pan. Place over low heat, bring to boiling point; simmer 5 minutes; strain. Pour into heated bowl or pitcher. Float orange slices on top. If desired, 1 tablespoon red cinnamon candies may be used for color; omit cinnamon sticks. YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Heavenly Ham Snacks for Sunday Night

Here's a Sunday Night Supper Snack for your family and friends which can be fixed in a hurry and tastes simply heavenly. It's a delicious Deviled Ham Spread developed in the Lever Test Kitchens for a quick and delicious snack the whole family will love. The spread can be prepared ahead of time or just whipped up on the spur of the moment if unexpected guests arrive. The all-in-one spread combination of Good Luck table margarine, deviled ham, and the teasing taste of horse-radish can be used for piquant open-face broiled biscuits. Good, too, for filled biscuits, bite-size or man-size. Serve them when they're hot and bubbly and you won't have to wait for the raves.

DEVILED HAM SPREAD
1 bar (1/2 cup) Good Luck margarine
2 2 1/2 ounce cans deviled ham
3 tablespoons horse-radish

Let margarine soften in mixing bowl, then cream thoroughly with mixing spoon. Add ham and horse-radish and mix well. Yield: about 1 cup.

SUNDAY SUPPER BISCUITS
Use your favorite recipe for baking powder biscuits, rolling the dough 1/2-inch thick for 2 1/2-inch cutters or thinner for smaller ones. Roll 3/4-inch thick for triangles. Bake in a very hot oven (450°F.) 10 to 15 minutes, or until done. Break hot biscuits apart, spread with deviled ham spread and broil for 3-4 minutes or put biscuit halves together with spread and heat in oven for about 5 minutes.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

One of the world's most dramatic and free spectacles takes place every spring right over and under our noses. It's the return of our birds.

A short drive to field, park or lake anywhere in our country can reveal a remarkable feathered parody of human emotions and institutions.

You can see how birds build artistic and well-equipped homes, entertain lavishly, hold courts of council or justice, impress the opposite sex and practice occupations from fisherman to street cleaner. A pair of binoculars is the only equipment necessary. Just stay still for a while with the light behind you so that you can see them clearly.

All of us have seen a swarm of crows on a hill or treetop. Next time you pass this sight, stop for a moment. It might be a crow-court cawing accusations and passing sentence upon a miscreant standing sheepishly in the middle.

Or you might stop to see one kind of bird build a house of flower petals glued with spider webs, or another shape his house of clay and cover it with iridescent beetle wings; and some even landscape their homes in the brush with mosses and colorful pebbles or berries.

There are far more enthusiastic amateur bird-lovers than scientific ones—like the nine million children, active members of Junior Audubon clubs, who take regular excursions to observe and hear our feathered friends.

Incidentally, in the spring, the birds provide an excuse for a moonlight drive too. It's migration time and you can try to count them—as the scientists do—while they cross the face of the moon.

Dairy Farms U. S. Asset

"With a yearly output valued at around 8 billion dollars the U. S. dairy industry is one of the country's most important economic assets," according to the American Dairy Association.

"The dairy industry has a tremendous influence upon the U. S. economy."

"The dairy industry is one of wide ramifications based on a system of production, collection, transportation and distribution which improves the health and economic welfare of every community."

"It is estimated that 10 million people are dependent upon the dairy industry for their livelihood, and those in allied industries and families."

Some 190,000 trucks used in delivering milk and its products to farms to plants and consumers, dairying is one of the most important of all the food products which is a highly perishable commodity.

Most drivers have been on one end or the other of the plaintive plea, "Hey, can you give me a push so I can start my car?"

There is not a passenger car on the market today designed to push another one. There are several reasons why you should not feel like a "heel" for refusing to be the "pusher."

1—You can end up with serious and expensive damage to the drive-line parts, or, possibly scuffing to your bumper.

2—You may become jointly liable for any accident caused by the pushed car. In fact, many localities have ordinances prohibiting pushing.

3—Particularly in city traffic, pushing can rarely be accomplished with any degree of safety since a speed up to 20 miles an hour has to be achieved before the car may start.

4—Proper pushing techniques must vary according to the car's construction and the cause of its distress. There are no simple rules, and to adopt the wrong technique may either be useless or cause additional damage.

5—If the cause of the distress is a flooded carburetor, pushing is unnecessary. Advise the driver to switch on the ignition and hold his accelerator to the floorboard, without pumping it. This should dissipate the excess gasoline and allow the car to start.

There's no need to leave a distressed driver in the lurch, however. Offer him a lift to the nearest service station or garage—the only places properly equipped to help him.

Adding to the pleasure of car travel are the availability and convenience of motels. So many outstanding ones exist that the traveler need never be disappointed if he knows what to look for.

Two good indications of a well-run motor court are an attractive well-kept highway signs en route and in front, and cars with out-of-town license plates on the premises. The wary traveler, however, is wise to take a personal look-see for cleanliness and attractiveness of the accommodations before he checks in.

Many motels boast swimming pools, kiddie playgrounds, "sitter" service and television and air conditioning in every room. In general, prices are on a par with hotels, but motels do eliminate garage and tipping fees and the need for dressing up.

Several free publications list and describe the finest motels. Other listings vary in price but are more complete. Shell Oil's touring service supplies a free folder telling where to obtain these listings.

Many motel managers will now arrange reservations for your next night's motel stop and accept deposits to confirm them. This is particularly helpful when you expect to arrive late, after the nicest places would ordinarily be filled.

The U. S. already boasts more than 40,000 motor courts and 2,000 new ones are being built every year. Wherever you tour, you can find a "home" as sweet as home—for you and your car!

Solving Labor Shortage

What's the best way to meet the steadily tightening farm labor shortage?

Midwestern agronomists say the answer is in more efficient crop production methods that boost yields per acre. They suggest these steps: 1—Greater use of lime and commercial fertilizer which will boost yield per acre on cropped fields and pastures and increase the output of meat and milk. 2—Increased mechanization which enables workers to do more in fewer hours. 3—More plantings of higher yielding hybrid seed varieties.

Safe Shaft Cleaner

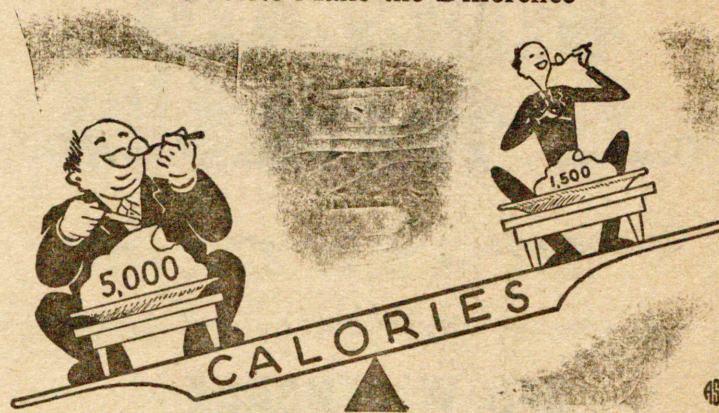

When grass or weed stems bind tightly around revolving shafts or axles of farm equipment, it's a vexing and sometimes dangerous job to dig them loose. But here's a safe shaft-cleaner; a steel quarter or half-inch rod, with an 8 or 10-inch handle, and a sharp hook on one end. With it you can break the stems and clean the shaft without danger of losing a finger or hand—even if you've been careless enough to leave the shaft in motion. One farmer made several, one for each implement where wrapped shafts was a problem.

Food Sense — Not Nonsense

Calories Make the Difference

KEEP IT BALANCED

Peck's bad boy couldn't have taken more punishment than has the abused calorie, yet no one could live without it. Whether you are big or little, you need energy to work and enjoy life. That energy can come only from calories furnished by food.

Today, good diet has an indirect enemy—the calorie—because some folks forget that a key to healthful living is balanced eating. So much is said about hazards of overweight that the food needs of the underweight, though fashionable, is a real hazard.

It is easy enough to see the results of too many calories. Likewise a lack of calories is evident before the lack of proteins or any one of the vitamins or minerals sounds a warning. Underfeeding leads to nervousness, irritability, loss of appetite, indigestion, listlessness, lack of vitality and lowered resistance.

The energy to live comes from food and the amount of energy supplied by that food is measured in terms of calories. Actually, food is fuel. Fuels are they gasoline or apple pie, put the "go" in your car or your body. Your age, how hard you work physically, and your size decide how many calories you need. Too many calories go to waste, on your waist.

Fats give about twice as many calories as do sugars, starches or proteins. Foods high in fat have a high calorie count. Some foods, such as a few fruits and vegetables, due to their large amounts of cellulose and water are very low in calories. Nutritionists consider bread and lean meat as having in-between calorie values.

Calories from enriched bread and cereals are economical sources of energy. In some cases, these foods furnish good protein for as much as one-half the cost of high-protein foods.
